

Eugene Environmental Film Festival Presents

ENVIRONMENTAL DOCUMENTARY WORKSHOP

Free Educational Workshop for Aspiring Youth Filmmakers and Environmental Leaders

Friday October 5th, 2018
9:00 am - 2:30 pm

Northwest Youth Corps
2621 Augusta St, Eugene

Learn how to turn your ideas into compelling works of art that attract attention to your cause

Filmmaking

Dylan D'Haeze

filmmaker | Age: 15

Dylan and his team will be discussing the ins and outs of filmmaking, how to pick and research a topic, and how to choose the right people to interview. Dylan hopes attendees will get inspired from listening to his personal journey in filmmaking and is offering students a virtual pilot program which allows them the opportunity to work on making a film with framework and support provided by him.

PLASTIC IS FOREVER

See More Event Details >>

Creative Thinking and Research

Salmon Panel

The workshop will include a 30 minute panel around environmental issues contributing to the decline of native salmon in the Pacific Northwest. A representative from Oregon Wild, the University of Oregon, and McKenzie Watershed Council will be present. Panelists will share their understanding and the work they are doing around the decreasing salmon issue to give students an understanding of the many sides of a single issue.

Opportunities @ University of Oregon

Veratta Pegram-Floyd will also be joining the workshop to briefly talk about the University of Oregon cinema and journalism studies programs, speaking specifically on their film degrees and different scholarship options.

There will be snacks provided and free pizza from

SIZZLE PIE

Workshop is presented by

EUGENE ENVIRONMENTAL FILM FESTIVAL

eugevoff.org

Sponsors:

Pacific University

Tacovore

Partners for Sustainable Schools

UO Cinema Studies

Oregon Country Fair

Mountain Rose Herbs

Northwest Youth Corps

Sizzle Pie

to reserve a spot, contact Ana McAbee
anamcabee@yahoo.com